TCOM adds new teaching hospital

TCOM has added another hospital to the list of affiliated teaching facilities. The Regional Hospital at Carswell Air Force Base has become the first military hospital to affiliate with TCOM and brings the total number of college affiliated teaching hospitals to seven. The announcement was made by Dr. Ralph L. Willard, dean.

Under the terms of the agreement signed in Fort Worth and forwarded to the U.S. surgeon general, the hospital becomes a college affiliate for the purpose of training TCOM students. Sixteen upper level students will receive clinical training at the hospital in surgery, medicine, obstetrics and gynecology and pediatrics.

Dr. Willard said the new affiliation would benefit both the college and the Air Force. He noted that it would widen the clinic experiences available to the student doctors and those students on military scholarships will have an early opportunity to experience the distinctive aspects of military medicine. Dr. Willard said the Air Force, in turn, will get an early look at prospective officers and patients in the USAF hospital will benefit by the expansion of the health care team.

Other TCOM teaching hospitals are Fort Worth Osteopathic Hospital, Dallas Consortium consisting of Dallas, East Town, and Stevens Park Osteopathic Hospitals, Grand Prairie Community Hospital and Corpus Christi Osteopathic Hospital.

Antiques to work for medical education

Antiques will be working for medical education when the District II Auxiliary to the Texas Osteopathic Medical Association sponsors an antique show at Fort Worth's Roundup Inn Nov. 11-13. All advance ticket sales will benefit a scholarship program at TCOM and will be tax deductible. Proceeds from tickets sold at the door will go to the organization managing the show, Sooner Shows, Inc. of Tulsa, Okla.

The Fort Worth Antique Show and Sale represents the first major scholarship drive undertaken on behalf of TCOM by the District II Auxiliary. An intensive pre-show ticket sale campaign is planned with tickets available from the TCOM Public Information Office and members of the District II Auxiliary.

H.A. Stone of Sooner Shows, Inc., predicts about 35 dealers from 11 states and Nova Scotia will have items for sale and on display. For many of the dealers, this will be the first time to exhibit in Texas. The show will also be the first in Texas for Sooner Shows.

The wide range of antiques on display and for sale will include country furniture, Steuben and Tiffany glass and cut glass. A dealer who speaks both Japanese and Chinese will exhibit early oriental procelain. One dealer planning to exhibit will have a collection valued over $100,000 on display and the total worth of the items displayed is expected to reach about $1 million.

Chairman of the antique show is Mrs. George F. Pease and president of the District II Auxiliary is Mrs. Roy B. Fisher.

Mid-year grades due Oct. 21

Mid-year grades for all TCOM students will be due in the Office of the Registrar by 5 p.m., Oct. 21, according to Earlene McElroy, registrar. Grade report sheets have been mailed to faculty members. If you have not received your grade reports, contact the Office of the Registrar.

Speculums now available

A limited number of copies of the 1977 Speculum, TCOM's yearbook, are available for $17.50, according to student-doctor Dale Chisum, the book's editor. Chisum said anyone interested in purchasing a yearbook should contact him personally or leave word in his mailbox in the Administration Building.

Med Ed I construction continues

As construction on Medical Education Building I progresses, activity on the job site continues to increase. Because of this, it is becoming more important for anyone visiting the job site to be accompanied by an authorized person. Don Denney, manager of construction, and Milton Schultz, project manager, are requesting that anyone needing to visit that site contact either them or Ken Coffelt, assistant to the dean, before entering the construction area. "There have been some people on the job site who have not been accompanied by authorized personnel. If someone has a need to go there, that is OK, but the main thing is to be accompanied by someone else," Denney said.

UW campaign raises $500

TCOM's formal United Way campaign closed Oct. 7 with a total of $500 being donated by college faculty and staff, excluding osteopathic physicians, according to Ray Stokes, United Way chairman and director of alumni affairs. Stokes said the donations represent 25 per cent of TCOM's goal of $2,000. He noted that special recognition should be given to the custodial staff of the physical plant. Each member of the custodial staff donated to this year's campaign for a 100 per cent participation. Those participating from the custodial staff are Ann Tamplin, Lewis Stubbs, Columbus Powell, Lewis Trigg and Millie Bagley.

Anyone who wishes to contribute to the United Way should contact Stokes.

Schultz joins TCOM

Milton Schultz, formerly with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, has joined TCOM as project manager for Medical Education Building I. Schultz replaces Don Denney who has accepted additional responsibilities with North Texas State University.

Originally from Alleyton, Schultz and his wife, Rita, now reside in Godley.

He received a bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering from The University of Texas at Austin in 1950.
